

CHRIS BROWNHILL T & D 2025

by John McFayden

The 2025 T&D was blessed with something which has been in very short supply this year, good weather. Warm temperature, blue sky and wind that was manageable. Oh, and the wind direction was from the north and not through the trees.

This is scheduled to be the last T&D held on the original circle. The ground finally dried up enough for the park maintenance staff to cut the grass for most of the model airplane area. A small portion of the combat circle was however knee-deep grass.

Parking was only available at the cycle track so everyone had to tote their models and gear back to the flying area.

For Stunt, the judges for all the events flown were Kim Doherty and Paul Emmerson.

Sadly, there were a couple of balsa vs concrete intersections, one easily repairable and one, well, lots of splinters.

For combat, Stuart Henderson manned a stop-watch and counted cuts for every match in conjunction with whichever competitor was not involved in a particular match. Great job Stu.

Lots of great matches, a few refls, many streamers floating to the ground and of course the inevitable sound of crashes and mid-air.

The 63rd Chris Brownhill T&D was a very good success.
